

Peep Behind The Curtain

One child is chosen to be on and stands at one side of the area with their back to the others. The rest of the children stand at the opposite side.

Their aim is to creep up behind the person who is on and touch them gently on the shoulder. However, the child who is on can turn around at any time.

When he or she does, the rest of the children have to freeze. If the child who is on sees any child moving that child has to go back to the base line. They have to start again!

Only three children can be sent back to each time the child turns around. This keeps the game flowing.

The child who is first to touch the child to touch the child in front on the shoulder takes their place for the next go.
