DEFINITION OF SPECIAL EDUCATIONAL NEEDS.

At different times in their school career, a child or young person may have a special educational need. The Code of Practice defines SEN as:

A child or young person has SEN if they have a learning difficulty or disability which calls for special educational provision to be made for them. A child of compulsory school age or a young person has a learning difficulty or disability if they:

have a significantly greater difficulty in learning than the majority of others of the same age:

or

have a disability which prevents or hinders them from making use of educational facilities of a kind generally provided for others of the same age in mainstream schools or mainstream post-16 institutions.

ADMISSION ARRANGEMENTS.

With due regard to parental choice and accessibility of the school building, all children with special educational needs will be accepted by the school in line with LA admissions policy.

CURRICULUM ACCESS AND PROVISION.

All children will be taught a broad and balanced curriculum. Where children require additional or specialist support, specialist resources or extension materials these will generally be provided by the school or the school will make further application for assistance to the relevant services.

ROLES AND RESPONSIBILITIES

Special Educational Needs Co-ordinator (SENCO).

- To monitor and evaluate the quality of teaching, learning, attainment and progress;
- To ensure that SEN allocation in the budget enables as far as possible, the SENCO to carry out the roles and objectives associated with the post and in doing so raise standards of provision for SEN;
- Ensure commonality of practice in line with school policy.

SEND – IDENTIFICATION, ASSESSMENT AND PROVISION

Cause for Concern Level

Teachers have responsibility for the educational and pastoral care of all children within their class. The class teacher is usually the first person to identify when a child is failing to make adequate progress or who is demonstrating behaviours that are a concern. The importance of the class teacher in readily identifying a concern and responding to it is paramount.

Concerns may arise as a result of:

- observation of the child within the classroom and school environment;
- assessment of the child's work and rate of progress;
- awareness of physical or medical conditions which are affecting progress/behaviour;
- awareness of social factors and skills that affect progress
- awareness of behavioural issues that may impede the learning of the child, or the learning of others.
- concerns raised by parents;
- concerns raised by outside agencies.

When a concern arises the class teacher should inform the SENCO of the nature of the difficulty. Children will be included on the inclusion register as 'cause for concern'. Careful monitoring and a review of progress will be made each term and if necessary further action taken.

SEN IDENTIFICATION

When a child is identified as having a special educational need it may be due to teacher or parental concerns about a child (underpinned by evidence) who, despite receiving differential learning opportunities:

- Makes little or no progress even when teaching approaches are targeted particularly at an area of weakness;
- Shows signs of difficulty in developing core literacy and numeracy skills which result in poor attainment in some curriculum areas;
- Presents persistent emotional or behavioural difficulties which are not ameliorated by the behaviour management techniques usually employed by the school;
- Has sensory or physical problems, and continues to make little or no progress despite the provision of specialist equipment;
- Has communication and/or interaction difficulties and continues to make little or no progress despite the provision of a differentiated curriculum.

The SENCO should:

- define the child's primary (and secondary where appropriate) need linked to the key areas and include the child on the school inclusion register;
- ensure parents are consulted and kept informed of all action;
- gather background information and make/organise further assessments of the child's strengths and weaknesses, as appropriate;
- assist the planning of support and provision for the child in discussion with colleagues;
- monitor and review any action taken;
- consult with and seek specialist advice and support from external agencies and services (as appropriate)

The CLASS TEACHER should:

- remain responsible for planning appropriate teaching and learning opportunities for the child on a day to day basis;
- remain responsible for assessing progress and attainment;
- collaborate with the SENCO to plan and provide appropriate differentiated learning opportunities and additional support through planned intervention.
- liaise regularly with parents regarding progress and provision

PROVISION

The SENCO and class teacher will jointly decide upon the action needed based on individual need and previous assessment. Types of action / provision / intervention may include:

Different learning materials;

Specialist equipment;

Inclusion into targeted groups for individual support programmes;

Individualised targets prepared;

Effectiveness of intervention and support monitored;

As part of SEND support children with high levels of need will be allocated a SEND support plan. These plans are key stage specific and collate all information about a child's individual needs. The document includes:

- Personal information, outline of needs and named external agency involvement;
- Parental and child views;
- Background Information ;
- Termly targeted provision map following the Assess, Plan, Do and Review cycle as advised in the code of practice;
- Relevant assessment information e.g. attainment profile through school tracking, standardised assessments etc.

All additional provision and targets should be discussed with parents and the child (as appropriate). There should be regular contact between parents and the class teacher regarding the impact of support and intervention strategies on progress and attainment.

EHC Plan or High Needs Funding support

Where a child demonstrates a specific, significant and long-term needs, they may require more specialist provision or access to a higher level of adult specialist support. This additional support and provision will be sought through application to the Local Authority via High Needs panel or through Education and Health Care Planning.

The key factor indicating the need for this level of support is the complex nature of a child's needs or rate of progress. It may then be necessary to address this with additional or different provision to enable them to learn more effectively. Whatever the level of difficulty, the key test of how well learning needs are being met is whether or not they are making adequate progress.

Monitoring

In accordance with the school assessment policy, the progress of all children is assessed against age related expectations and progress monitored termly. The SENCO is responsible for monitoring the attainment of children on the inclusion register and for assessing and analysing rates of progress.

Intervention and Support

The school has a range of intervention programmes. These programmes are used in response to needs and are delivered by both teachers and teaching assistants. They cover a range of curriculum areas, specialist skills and personal needs. Each programme is targeted to the development and enhancement of a particular aspect of learning or assist the development of a skill. The impact of these programmes is regularly monitored and evaluated.

Teaching assistants are used to effectively support children within the mainstream classroom, to mediate the curriculum and support active engagement in the learning process.

Partnership with parents and children.

The school will endeavour to:

- Provide clear and accurate information about the child's needs and the purposes of any assessment, targets or intervention programmes;
- Ensure that the child and parents understand the agreed outcomes of any intervention
- Support parents in providing additional support for their child at home;
- Direct parents to local support or advocacy services, as appropriate.

Arrangements for considering complaints about Special Educational provision within the school.

Initial problems should be addressed by the class teacher. A meeting with parents should be held to discuss the problem or concern.

Depending on the outcome of this meeting, a referral to the SENCO or Head Teacher should be made.

If no agreement can be reached, parents should be informed of the name of the school SEN Governor and the existence of LA identified/nominated persons who may offer further support and advice.

Procedures in the school complaints policy will be followed.

As we aim to work in close partnership with parents and children, we would hope to resolve any difficulties or complaints within school at a very early stage.

Links with other Schools.

Where appropriate the school will endeavour to forge links with local schools and specialist provision.
